

Hello,

I have been a digital sat. customer for 10 years now. I was with DirecTV for all but 1 of those years. I have been a voom subscriber for that last year and I believe that they offer much better customer service and a much better product and if you allow this sale to go through then you will be stifling competition and not allowing voom to get their company together and become a option for Americans to finally get there HDTV that the FCC has been promising to the public for years. Stoping this sale will also bring more Americans in to the fold of actually needing and wanting to buy an HDTV because the will have some programming to watch on these sets. Again please do not allow this sale to take place. Thank you.
